ANDY CATHARTIC

WEEKLY CROP REPORT!

ORNERAL REVIEW

The weather during the past week has been very unfavorable to farming inter-ests of all descriptions. There was no rain anywhere in the state except some very light sprinkles in the extreme South west portion on the 25th and 26th. No correspondent reports more than a trace The week opened very cool and frosts were quite general on the 21st and 22d. Temperatures as low as 32 degrees were reported from scattered points throughout the state. The standing tobacco in tionwands was badly injured, in many sec-tions ruined. That on high ground was generally only alightly injured, and in some cases not even stained.

Crops in the Western and Central por ions of the state were injured more se tously than those in the Eastern by the rosts, though the frosts were probably more severe in the latter section. The crops in the latter section were nearer maturity apparently. Much damage was done to cornfodder in all sections. The grain of the early corn was not injured at all by frost, but some correspondents report that the late crops were badly dam-aged. This complaint was not general, though, the larger number reporting se rious damage enly to the biade. The fact is the entire corn crop had aiready been so seriously injured by the extended drouth that there was little chance left for damage from frost. The blade was generally badly fired, the shuck and in some localities the stalk was withered. The great demand for rain now is for tock water, and that the soil may be rendered fit for wheat seeding and for plowing. All this character of work is at a standslill. Pastures are dried up throughout the entire state, and stock are being fed from cornfields. Garden are nearly all ruined. Conditions are al together very discouraging.

By far the greater portion of tobacc had been cut before the occurrence of frost. On the 20th warnings agains frost were sent to all points in the Cen tral and Western sections, and consider able tobacco could have been cut on that day, and no doubt was. It was esti-mated that nearly three-fourths of the erop was saved at the close of last week With this amount saved, with what was cut on the 20th and with the highland growth remaining generally not seriously injured, leaves but a small per cent. of the year's crop lost. Though the existing shortage is accentuated, the short-age in the corn crop is equally if not more marked.

WESTERN SECTION

This was the only portion of the state reporting any rain at all, and then no more than a trace at any place. The drouth is very severe. Everything now burnt up. The only product reported as being in good condition from any local-ity wastomatoes in Carlisle county. The frosis on the 21st and 22d still further diminished the yield of corn and tobacco, in both of which crops already a serious shortage existed.
